Our Promise to You

The Transmitter Shop understands that dependable instrumentation not only makes your job more productive, but down time costs money which is something we are all trying to save. "Rush Orders Are Our Specialty" has always been our motto, in addition our staff would like to reinforce our goal of customer satisfaction. We are always trying to improve upon our ability to provide you with the type of service that will keep your organization up and running properly. Like all companies our goal for 2004 is to increase sales, and without satisfied customers we know that will be impossible. We promise to work with you in maintaining an efficient work environment and to help you achieve your production goals. If ever you are not satisfied with the service you have received from The Transmitter Shop please contact our management team at once. We appreciate your business and will continue to strive towards offering all of our customer's quality process instrumentation. We look forward to hearing from you.
